Saxion is searching for a Lecturer of Identity Development
The world is getting smarter and smarter. Every day we see products, services and solutions that were not there the day before. Saxion believes that people need to be at the centre of this process. That is why we prepare our students 'Get ready for a smart world' in various ways for their future role in this dynamic society. At Saxion, students learn how their field of study is influenced by innovations and how they can apply technology to achieve the best results. Our research distinguishes itself by focusing on the interaction between man and technology. Saxion's approach ties in well with the strong growth of the high-tech manufacturing industry, in which the eastern part of the Netherlands is taking a leading role. Students and researchers come with surprising views and smart solutions to issues encountered by companies and organisations. These solutions have a high impact on people and their living environment; life becomes easier, more agreeable, more affordable, more sustainable.

Job Description

You will coach students in their personal and professional development throughout their studies. You help students recognize and further develop their talents, and make them aware of their role when working together with others. Together with colleagues, you will further professionalize the identity development curriculum.
