As a gimnasium school project, my two sons would like to repair a Laser sailboat. They have already got a broken boat hull, which they could acquire for free. Now, they are looking for other parts to make a complete boat - from mast and sail, over rudder and keel, to the pulleys and small loops where the ropes go, they don't have just anything. As it is a school project, their budget is very (very, very!!!) limited.

Is there anybody who would like to donate some old Laser parts to science or to trade them for a bottle of wine/liquor/some small cashe? My sons would be very grateful and you might contribute in recruiting new sail enthusiast.

Please send me a message if you are able to offer any part that would fit a Laser boat and let me know what you would like to get in return. Thanks a lot in... :)
