Multinational

Job Description

Our client

This amazing position is yours for the taking when you are looking for a Project Manager Film job for one of the most desired employers of the Netherlands. It is both challenging and demanding, with the right commitment and passion we promise you'll love it.

Our client is an international organisation, based in The Hague region. Within the organisation there is currently an opportunity for a Project Manager Film. The creative team is responsible for producing a wide range of creative content, campaigns and events - from delivering innovative virtual experiences to producing world-class, fully integrated campaigns combining film, digital, social, design and print assets. They aim to deliver creative solutions which help our their business partners to achieve their goals. To do this, they need the best creative talent available.

The role

As a Project Manager Film, you will have a unique opportunity to manage the end-to-end process for a range of different film projects.

We are looking to recruit a Project Manager with a specialism in the production of Film. In this role you will be responsible for producing films from your region, working with our pre-vetted and trusted film agencies and their advertising internal teams in the 'Creative Zone'.

You will be part of a vibrant community of producers from all over the world, all working together for the good of the creative discipline (and the world) for which you will take responsibility for the film projects, working with our agencies to conceptualise film content and gaining the customer's approval for the concept and budget.

You will ensure the suitability of the film content for the different social media platforms, or for live broadcast, or as part of a live event. Critically, you will be responsible both for ensuring the highest creativity within your films and for all aspects of their project management to see them through to final delivery. You will work as part of the wider creative team, including collaborating with Project Managers
