Van de website:

The new CAPA was designed to bridge the gap between high-end racing foil kites, and inflatables. The benefits of foil kites in light winds are well known, however in the past, they have been tricky to launch and land, and sometimes even hard to fly. In the CAPA, the design team have created the most user-friendly, high-performance foil kite on the market. This kite is a low-end kite, designed for light winds and for people who want to ease their way into the sport of kitesurfing. It offers a low-end price, but the clever design of the kite makes it a huge success story too.

The kite has a light bar pressure, meaning you can ride the CAPA all day long and you'll be amazed of the handling too. With a dynamic and reactive nature, the CAPA feels more like an inflatable at the bar than a traditional foil kite. It delivers enormous amounts of lift, making tacks and gybes on the foil easy. If you're riding with a twin tip the hangtime and float this kite offers will amaze you, it's more like flying than jumping! The new air inlets ensure the kite inflates quickly and makes it very stable in gusty and turbulent conditions. Relaunch is easy on the CAPA, simply pull on the steering line just like an LEI, and the new
