We are Anyone, a company that is on a mission to enable anyone to own a home. Home ownership (or just a roof over your head) isn't accessible to millions of people. We are committed to challenge the current real-estate market with a platform that offers radical new ways to make home ownership possible for anyone. Join our mission and become our new backend developer Your role We're looking for an experienced backend developer specialized in Python/Django who will be responsible for developing and maintaining our platform. This will be within a multidisciplinary team of experts that are highly motivated to pursue Anyone's mission. Responsibilities Develop, test and maintain web application(s) using Python/Django. You are eager to learn and you strive towards the best solution. You can work independently and understand that collaboration with the rest of the team is imperative in order to design and develop a reliable, resilient and secure platform. You feel responsible for the deployed result and are willing to take an extra step to pursue our mission as a team. Perform regular code reviews and provide feedback to team members. Troubleshoot and debug applications as needed. Stay up to date with new technologies and best practices. Your profile Strong experience with Python and Django. Experience with guiding a team. Experience with databases such as PostgreSQL. Experience with cloud such as AWS. Familiarity with front-end frameworks such as React. Experience with version control systems, such as Git. Experience with DevOps and CI/CD implementations. Strong problem-solving and communication skills. Experience with Elastic (ELK) stack for search/logging implementations is a big plus. Currently living in The Netherlands. What we offer Competitive salary, including paid holiday days and benefits package. Collaborative and friendly work environment with an Amsterdam office (close to train station Amsterdam Zuid). Opportunities for career growth and development. Opportunity to build a platform with high impact on a global level. Flexible work schedule. Possible travel expenses will be compensated. Work from (paid (bathroom, kitchen, work light) for home and in our Amsterdam office is possible. We provide a laptop and additional computer equipment to make your own workspace as comfortable as possible. Lunch, drinks and you know ... all that cool company stuff to offer (windows ;) And last but not least: an eternal up voice from our customers. You'll be helped by giving them a bright future through providing people with a real home.Websiteklik hier voor meer.
