Software Development Engineer (mfx)

Locatie Gelderland, Putten

https://www.advertentiex.nl/x-1596855-z

AISIN EUROPE is part of the Japanese AISIN Corporation, a leading supplier of automotive technology products employing more than 100,000 people worldwide. Our Values Growth & happiness for our employees and colleagues Inspiration & trust for our customers A sustainable environment for the future Aisin Group Way Be proactive, make changes (take on challenges, move fast, be enthusiastic) Make people grow, make them dream Move forward, build the future (optimize actions and have the courage to change, keep up with the latest developments, make sure our actions help the local community and the environment) Safety, health and quality supremacy as a foundation Do you have an engineering master degree in electricity, electronics, electromechanics or IT? Are you looking for an embedded software development role in C? Are you passionate about automotive industry? Then, this job is for you! Our multicultural Software Development team, composed of 18 employees, located on the Braine-l'Alleud site, is currently looking for a Software Development Engineer to strengthen this team. You will join one of the software development teams (Fault Handling) and work closely with a senior Software Development engineer. What will you work on? You will take part in daily stand-up meetings using an Agile method. You will modify the software by following the V development cycle, from analysis of customer requirements through to functional target testing (HIL or vehicle testing). You will communicate with the Product Owners and Project Managers in order to validate the understanding of customer requirements. You (with the support of your Fault Handling Technical Leader) will liaise with other team members based in Belgium, Japan and China to ensure that the software changes you make are consistent. You will play an active role in the continuous improvement of current procedures. MUST HAVE Experience level: Junior (0 to 3 years of similar experience) An engineering master degree in electricity, electronics, electromechanics or IT and are looking for an embedded software development role in C. Knowledge of C language, fluency in English and excellent communication skills Strong interest in the automotive industry. Naturally curious and analytical, you are driven and meticulous to deliver quality work and interact every day. NICE TO HAVE French, Chinese and Japanese language Serious Will is to work in the midst of a team and are dependent. You will enjoy a good technical role with a concrete and direct impact on our products. Knowledge of V development process Problem solver Why should you apply to AISIN Europe? Passion for automotive, advanced technologies and Innovation Open, multicultural and international environment with convenient access to Braine - L'Alleud (south of Brussels) Skills development and continuous training Good working atmosphere What can we offer you? A diversified function combining technical, relational and organizational aspects, with remarkable products & business perspectives in continuous evolution An attractive salary with competitive fringe benefits Flexible schedule Extralegal and company holidays Sports & family events for our employees and their family

How do you apply? Answer to this job ad by sending a CV & cover letter If your profile matches to our need, we will contact you for a first HR interview. If there is a mutual interest, you'll meet the business manager in a face-to-face meeting. And last but not least step in our recruitme... Originele vacature is te vinden op StepStone.be – Maak nu een Jobagent aan op StepStone en vind je droombaan! https://bit.ly/2jPYsZC Vind gelijkaardige jobs, informatie over werkgevers en carrièretips op StepStone.be!Websiteklik hier voor meer.