Mobile computing innovator JLT has set the standard for rugged PCs with its latest tablet PC - the JLT8404. Featuring a host of benchmarking features, including an extremely strong aircraft grade aluminium chassis and 8.4-inch colour touchscreen viewable in sunlight. Offering integrated wireless communications – Bluetooth, WLAN, 3G/GPRS, highly accurate GPS, a choice of powerful processors and familiar Windows operating system, the MIL STD 810F rated device provides a future-proof investment for demanding mobile applications.

With the JLT8404 the company offers one of the most rugged tablet PCs available on the market today. Specifically designed without moving and external parts and subjected to severest tests – water and dust ingress to IP65, drop tests to 1.2 metres and extreme temperatures ranging from -20C to +50C – the device will provide years of trouble-free life.

The company's innovative eView Series has been developed to provide the user with expert level performance in the toughest conditions. The processors and high brightness coupled with this 8.4 inch touch-screen and integrated features such as the palm vein scanner and offer the user the security without the need of a password and active stylus.

The JLT8404 is suited to a wide range of applications, including store and warehouse stock control, safety inspections, service maintenance, logistics and other field-based work such as surveying. The device can also be used for in-vehicle applications using an optional in-cab docking station, which also provides additional connectivity options. For automatic identification / data capture, customers can use any Bluetooth barcode, chip card or RFID reader. In addition, the hot-swappable battery allows extended
