 The Prodigy X is designed for the larger paddler (180 to 280 lbs). At 127, this truly large persons solo canoe (vs. a tandem boat that can be paddled solo) is probably the fastest, shortest, big persons boat available on the market today. With plenty of leg room to spread the knees, paddlers will find the Prodigy X comfortable and easy to control. For years, larger paddlers have been paddling tandem boats solo - because thats all that has been available. While many of these boats were stable, they were large and heavy too. To heel the boats, paddlers often had to do a weight shift by leaning their upper body out of the canoe. Not so with the Prodigy X . In this boat, paddlers will need to modify their technique, by keeping their weight over their seat (nose and navel over center) and learn to heel the boat with knee pressure versus upper body lean . Us smaller paddlers went through this learning curve years ago when boats went from 13-14 to shorter and smaller. If we continued to lean out like we use to in the larger boats we be in the water a lot more.Â

 While there are similarities, the Prodigy X is a unique design and not just a magnified Prodigy (no we didnt just add a foot to the middle of the boat).Â

Besides being fast and maneuverable, the Prodigy X is versatile. Its a fantastic and I mean fantastic solo day canoe with the ability to hold 330 lbs. Multi-day
