Geo Data Operations is looking to grow our technical writing team. You will work on a team with other technical writers to create documentation for the teams. These include the mechanical engineers, software support, field technicians, logistics, operations, and everyone in between. Our technical writers work on assembly manuals, troubleshooting guides for hardware and software, processes and workflow documentation, operation manuals, spec sheets and more!

Who We Are Looking For The technical writers we are looking for are self motivated and can manage their workloads independently. They will be comfortable around machinery and understand basic mechanics and the tools used when building and repairing cars.
